me: word to the wise

me: I'll be on Russia Today on Monday evening

me: again

me: apparently it's hard to get banned from Russia Today

Dan: Cool. What time?

me: and it will be the TV event of the week

me: as it will be live

me: oh

me: like 7

me: EST

me: it will be up on YouTube me: just in case you don't happen to be watching your daily dose of Russia Today at that time

me: WE HAVE TO FACE THE POSSIBILITY DAN

Dan: LOL. What did you think of the Isikoff piece?

me: goofy

Dan: Kind of my feeling, too.

me: they should not have called me a "senior strategist"

me: I spent six hours explaining Anon to them

me: we don't have titles me: I've taken on the official title of "faggot" in protest

Dan: Very Dan Whatsisname, the gay writer.

me: Savage

Dan: Yeah, Savage.

me: he's a character

Dan: He is a character. He's weird, though. I mean, the whole thing about gay sex is better than straight sex.

Dan: In my unbiased opinion, the sex I have is as good as it gets.

Dan: You know?

Dan: I mean, don't want to put anyone down, but . . .

me: I don

me: I don't think he thinks that me: I've been reading him since I was 15

me: as I used to intern at those alt weeklies

Dan: Oh, but he's written that, saying that straight sex is like Tab A, Slot B.

me: ah

me: well, I'm in no position to argue because I haven't fucked a guy me: let the homo think what he will

Dan: LOL, me either, but I don't think he takes into account just how alien the mind of woman is.

me: that's very possible. not something that we breeders can ignore

Dan: Truly.

me: I've got a girlfriend now, it sucks

Dan: Or, we do so at our great peril.

Dan: Aw, sorry about that.

me: She's taking the me-being-in-perpetual-act-of-propaganda-of-the-deed pretty well, though

me: for a girl

Dan: Okay, that's definitely off the record.

me: k

Dan: Anyway, thanks for the heads up.

Dan: My mind's like a sieve. Can you remind me on Monday?

me: soitanly

Dan: Tanks.
